9 UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
10 WESTERN DISTRICT OF WASHINGTON
AT TACOMA

11 SVETLANA KUDINA,

12 Plaintiff,

13 v.

14 CITIMORTGAGE, INC.,

15 Defendants.

No. C10-5887 RBL

ORDER DENYING PLAINTIFF'S MOTION
TO COMPEL DEFENDANT TO RESPOND
TO DISCOVERY AND PLAINTIFF'S
SECOND MOTION TO COMPEL CITY
MORTGAGE AND ITS ATTORNEYS

16 This matter has been referred to the undersigned Magistrate Judge for all discovery
17 matters pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 636(b)(1)(A) and (B) and Local Magistrate Judge Rules MJR 1, 18 MJR 3 and MJR 4.
19

20 Before the Court are Plaintiff's Motion to Compel Defendant to Respond to Discovery
21 (ECF No. 13) and Plaintiff's Second Motion to Compel CityMortgage and its Attorneys (ECF 22 No. 19).

23 After reviewing Plaintiff's submissions and the responses provided by Defendant, it is
24 apparent that Plaintiff has failed to comply in good faith with the requirement to meet and confer
25

1 to resolve all discovery issues before bringing the matter to this Court for resolution. Therefore,
2 Plaintiff's motions are DENIED.

3 The first sentence in this Court's order regarding discovery was that "All discovery
4 matters should be resolved by agreement if possible." (ECF No. 11, Minute Order Regarding 5 Discovery and Depositions.) In that order the Court also noted that the conduct of the parties in
6 pretrial matters should be guided by the provisions of the Code of Pre-Trial Conduct published
7 by the American College of Trial Lawyers. (Id.) Among other things, that Code sets forth the 8 following requirement for discovery practice:

10 (4) When a discovery dispute arises, opposing lawyers must attempt to 11 resolve the dispute by working cooperatively together. Lawyers should 12 refrain from filing motions to compel or for court intervention unless they 13 have generally tried, but failed, to resolve the dispute through all reasonable
14 avenues of compromise and resolution.

15 Although Plaintiff is representing herself pro se this does not relieve her of the 16 responsibility of complying with this Code of Conduct, as she was ordered to do so by the Court.

17 Fed. R. Civ. P. 37(a) provides that no party shall move for an order compelling disclosure
18 or discovery unless the moving party includes a "certification that the movant has in good faith
19 conferred or attempted to confer with the person or party failing to make disclosure or discovery
20 in an effort to obtain it without court action."

21 Plaintiff filed her initial motion to compel discovery on April 13, 2011. Her motion was 22 filed approximately one week after the discovery was due. The motion was not accompanied by 23 any certification that Plaintiff had attempted in good faith to resolve the matter (see ECF No. 13).
24 After Defendant pointed out that Plaintiff had failed to comply with the certification requirement
25 (ECF No. 15, page 1), Plaintiff filed a certification on April 25, 2011, certifying that she
26 attempted to obtain relief without court action by calling defense counsel on March 10, 2011

1 (ECF No. 16). It is noted that Plaintiff made this call before discovery was even due – just one
2 week after it had been mailed, and before she had received any responses. This is insufficient.

3 Plaintiff's second motion reiterates her first motion, with added fervor. Plaintiff accuses
4 defense counsel of "deceit" (page 3), "glaring intentional misrepresentation" and "malfeasance"
5 (ECF No. 19). Because defense counsel noted that he was on vacation during the one day that
6 Plaintiff called she notes "ostensibly he has a whole office of associates and fellow partners that
7 could have provided a legitimate response to the request for discovery."

9 The requirement that parties and their representatives meet and confer to resolve
10 discovery disputes is not simply an invitation to engage in name calling and accusations.
11 Sometimes legitimate disputes regarding specific issues require the intervention of the court to 12 resolve matters that arise during discovery. There is nothing in this record to indicate that 13 Plaintiff has made any meaningful attempt to resolve these issues with defense counsel.
14 Therefore, the motions are DENIED.
15

16 It should be noted that a motion to compel discovery pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 37
17 should specify a particular interrogatory or interrogatories submitted under Fed. R. Civ. P. 33 or 18 by identifying a particular response to a request for production under Fed. R. Civ. P. 34 that fails
19 to meet discovery requirements. See 37(a)(3)(B)(iii)-(iv). Plaintiff has done neither. Instead,
20 Plaintiff has simply submitted two motions and attached the discovery requests and responses.
21 This is insufficient. Unless either party can demonstrate on a specific discovery request that 22 there is a legitimate dispute requiring court intervention, no order compelling discovery will 23 issue. The Court reserves the right to award attorney fees and costs in the event the parties are 24 unable to resolve these disputes and require further court intervention.
25

1 In order to promote future meaningful discovery conferences between the parties, the
2 Court offers several points for the parties to consider:

3 First, while the responding party has the option of producing business records in response
4 to interrogatories (Fed. R. Civ. P. 33(d)), the responding party is required to indicate which
5 documents correspond with the documents requested in the request for production (Fed. R. Civ.
6 P. 34(b)). Although Plaintiff and Defendant both report that Defendant produced documents, it
7 is unclear whether Defendant has complied with this requirement.

9 Second, Fed. R. Civ. P. 36 allows litigants to request admissions as to a broad range of 10 matters including ultimate facts. If a party fails to admit or deny, and fails to provide a
11 reasonable explanation for doing so, then the answer is insufficient and the requesting party may 12 move the court for an order either that the matter is admitted or that an amended answer to 13 served. Fed. R. Civ. P. 36(a)(6). In the motion presented to this Court, Plaintiff complains that 14 Defendant denied Request for Admission No. 4, which stated: “The debtor had without 15 exception timely paid every payment in full as it becomes due from June 1, 2008, to the present.”
16 See ECF No. 13, page 4. Plaintiff then claims that this is evasive. It is not. Defendant raised no
17 objection. Defendant did not obfuscate nor claim that it lacked knowledge or information.
18 Defendant simply denied the Request for Admission. She also claims that this is based on a 19 “mistaken factual premise.” Presumably, this means she disagrees with Defendant’s conclusion.
20 There is no requirement that the parties agree. Thus, the burden is now placed on the Plaintiff to 21 prove otherwise. Fed. R. Civ. P. 37(c)(2) provides in part:
22

24 Failure to Admit. If a party fails to admit what is requested
25 under Rule 36 and if the requesting party later proves a document
26 to be genuine or a matter true, the requesting party may move that the party who failed to admit pay the reasonable expenses,

1 including attorney's fees, incurred in making that proof. The 2 court must so order unless:

- 3 (A) The request was held objectionable under Rule
36(a);
4 (B) The admission sought was of no substantial
importance;
5 (C) The party failing to admit had a reasonable
ground to believe it might prevail on the matter;
6 or
7 (D) There was other good reason for the failure to admit.

8 Plaintiff apparently believes that she can prove the matter that Defendant has denied.
9 Defendant apparently believes that it can prove otherwise. Trials are sometimes necessary to 10 resolve these disputed facts. Therefore, Plaintiff will be required to prove this fact at trial. If the 11 Court believes that the matter should have been admitted, then the Rules contemplate that the 12 offending party can be required to pay reasonable expenses, including attorney's fees in making
13 the proof. Now is not the time for such an award.
14

15 Finally, it should be noted that the Court has previously issued a Minute Order regarding 16 Discovery and Depositions (ECF No. 11). The parties are encouraged to carefully review that 17 Order again. As this matter has now been referred to the undersigned for purposes of resolving 18 discovery issues, it should be noted by both parties that should either side request a joint call to 19 chambers for an expedited ruling by telephone conference, then this request should be made to 20 the undersigned, rather than the District Judge. Chambers phone number is (253) 882-3780.
21
